

Undergraduate - After You Apply

I decided to drop one of my A-level or AS-level subjects. Do I need to inform the University?

If you have changed your examination subjects from the ones you listed on your application form, please contact the Admissions Office to let us know. If you don't let us know, your application will be delayed in the summer when your examination results are released while we try to find out the result of the missing examination. This could jeopardise your choice of accommodation.
